2. To understand function of NGO

Report:

A Non-Governmental Organization (NGO) or Civil Society Organization is any organization not established by government agreement. They comprise the "third sector" of modern society, in addition to the public and private sectors. NGOs or similar organizations exist in all parts of the world. What is considered an NGO in one country may not qualify as an NGO in another, as legal definitions, permitted activities, monitoring, and oversight differ from country to country.

Students of 3rd and I semester M.A. in Economics of S.F.S. College, visited Yashaswini Union of Women Group which is a NGO organization, doing social services by providing Education to orphanage girl children and rural education. The program focused to know the importance on social inclusive of orphanage girl children. Our students collect the information about working pattern of NGO, as a part of the outreach programme our students interacted with students who are pursuing education in various schools and colleges. Students were able to understand various socio-economic problems faced by these students, and various govt. schemes were made available to the students, and at the end we greeted all the students for their sincere answers. And there was interactive session held with the founder director of the organization, Ms. Bhanumathi, she narrated her life experiences and struggles faced, she motivated the students to take part in various NGO events conducted. Students were given ample opportunities to interact with the members of the foundation.
